Dear Mother Jones reader,

We have no Planet B.

You've seen this sign carried at climate rallies. The message behind it is clear: climate change is real, is worsened by human activity, and will continue to harm our communities without significant action now. Congress has a moral obligation to protect vulnerable communities and address climate change with the seriousness it demands.

Tell your senators we can't wait: Address the climate crisis NOW!

Many economists agree that carbon pricing is the most cost-effective way to reduce carbon emissions at the scale and speed we need. And it's a solution that holds polluters to account. This is a matter of fairness. Simply put, polluters must pay.

Although Congress has so far failed to pass such bills, bipartisan support is growing to place a price on carbon emissions.

As a Quaker organization, we recognize that every one of us has the responsibility to care for our home, Earth. Your voice matters. Urge your senators to urgently enact laws to solve the climate crisis.

Failure is not an option. We have no other Earth.

For an earth restored,

Diane Randall
General Secretary
Friends Committee on National Legislation
